Contact the Working Women's Centre NSW for free legal advice and support.

Call 02 8745 6954

workingwomen@wlsnsw.org.au

www.wlsnsw.org.au

The Working Women's Centre New South Wales is supported by the Australian Government Department of Employment and Workplace Relations, through the Working Women's Centre Grant Program. It is complemented with funding by the NSW Government, through the Cabinet Office, Women NSW.

Australian Government
Department of Employment and Workplace Relations

Proudly funded by
NSW GOVERNMENT

Working Women's Centre NSW
Women's Legal SERVICE NSW

Free and confidential legal support for working women in NSW.

www.wlsnsw.org.au

About us

The Working Women's Centre NSW at the Women's Legal Service NSW provides free legal advice, support and representation to women in the workforce throughout NSW.

The Working Women's Centre NSW is designed to uphold the employment rights and entitlements of women.

We seek to combat workplace sexual harassment and discrimination, gender-based violence, wage theft and other systemic issues that disproportionately affect women.

Our aim is to ensure workplace rights, gender equity, economic security and respect for women.

What we can help with

We provide free legal advice, support and representation to women experiencing the following workplace issues:

- Unpaid entitlements or wage theft
- Sexual harassment and sexual violence
- Discrimination
- Bullying and harassment
- Workplace health and safety
- Missing superannuation and tax
- Dismissal, forced resignation or redundancy
- Difficulty accessing leave and flexible work arrangements
- Modern slavery

Who we support

Working Women's Centre NSW supports working women and non-binary people in NSW who:

- have lost their jobs or their ability to work
- are facing barriers at work or in securing work due to discrimination
- have experienced sexual harassment or sexual violence
- have had their employment impacted by domestic and family violence
- are subjected to financial abuse or modern slavery
- have been underpaid
- are on temporary visas and have been exploited